KHMER KREANG

KREANG is a fragrant Cambodian spice paste made from fresh lemongrass, kaffir lime leaves, galangal, turmeric and shallots, traditionally pounded together to release their oils, aromas and deep flavours.

For generations, KREANG has been at the heart of Khmer cooking. Long before modern blenders, Cambodian cooks patiently pounded these fresh ingredients by hand, creating a vibrant paste that became the foundation for soups, curries, stir-fries, marinades and sauces. Every family and region has its own balance of flavours, making KREANG as diverse as Cambodian cooking itself.

At Aro Café, we honour this tradition while giving it a simple and modern Wellington expression. Our foods are made with fresh ingredients and seasonal produce from what Te Whanganui-a-Tara (Wellington) has to offer.

Come and experience the taste of Khmer cooking — rooted in tradition, shaped by Aotearoa.
